

Tell Me, Tomorrow

Paul Colombo

Tell me, tomorrow what'll I be doin'
Tell me, tomorrow where should I go
Tell me, tomorrow am I closer to ruin
Tell me, tomorrow is there something I should know

I wake up every mornin' with a cloud o'er my head
Rainin' down loneliness like a leaded chain
She told me that she loved me, I feel so misled
Now I'm tied to emptiness and can't break free from the pain

Tell me tomorrow what'll I be doin'
Tell me tomorrow where should I go
Tell me, tomorrow am I closer to ruin
Tell me, tomorrow is there something I should know

I can't believe it happened, she turned and walked away
Instead of togetherness I'm livin' all alone
She said she found another, she's lovin' him today
I lost my happiness and can't make it on my own

Tell me, tomorrow what'll I be doin'
Tell me, tomorrow where should I go
Tell me, tomorrow am I closer to ruin
Tell me, tomorrow is there something I should know

It's time to start all over I gotta help myself
Find some friendliness to help me through the day
Lookin' for a lover that wants me to herself
And lives by truthfulness as it's the only way

Tell me, tomorrow what'll I be doin'
Tell me, tomorrow where should I go
Tell me, tomorrow am I closer to ruin
Tell me, tomorrow is there something I should know
